

31 JOURNAL PROMPTS FOR LIVING IN GOD'S WILL

- DAY 1: How have I shown gratitude this past week? Besides words, how did I use my actions?
- DAY 2: Is there anything or anyone in my heart that's been heavy? What happened this past week that God really put to my attention?
- DAY 3: As I think of a certain situation that's been heavy on my heart, how have I been praying about this or how can I start praying about this?
- DAY 4: When I am praying to God for guidance, does it humble me or make me really sad? How/why does it humble me or how/why does it make me feel sad?
- DAY 5: When no one is watching, what do I do that I know God is very pleased with?
- DAY 6: The last time I didn't feel right for some reason & I'm overcome w/ worry, did I go to God right away or did I reach for something else? If I went to Him in prayer, was it a successful conversation? If it wasn't successful or if I didn't pray at all, what other lessons could I draw from that past experience besides knowing that I could have gone to God?
- DAY 7: Embracing God's will is a practice as I acknowledge that all things are ultimately not in my control. What could I have surrendered or what can I surrender instead of hoarding that I know He will be pleased w/?
- DAY 8: Knowing that I have free will to make decisions for my own good, my convictions should always lead me back to God. Do my desires about a particular situation build my faith that He is good or do they more likely build my ego? What is the situation & what evaluations can I make?
- DAY 9: When I seek to please God first before others or myself, I am rewarded w/ peace, hope, & confidence that is better than any sense of approval I may receive because I am at the mercy of Him & not people or myself. Is there any area of my life that I know I must lay down at His feet right now?
- DAY 10: My first purpose in life is to glorify the Lord w/ what I have & I have a lot. Was I aware at all today that He is my ultimate goal? If not, what can I do right now to show God I value His purpose for me?
- DAY 11: God's will will bring me to obey Him as often as He wills it. Is there a situation this past week or month that I could have shown the LORD more obedience about? If I lacked obedience, how can I pray about this right now? If I didn't lack obedience & still prayed about it, what would I tell God?
- DAY 12: When was the last time I remembered to do the right thing? However big or small the matter, did I thank the Lord that I obeyed His will? What did I do? Is this something specific I can make a habit of doing more often?
- DAY 13: Gratitude is a saving grace & being grateful for overcoming a temptation should build my faith. Since it should build my faith, gratitude should also help me operate from humility rather than pride. What else can I be grateful for because I've been washed clean of my sins?

- DAY 14: Nothing gives God more glory than when I live to bring Him praise. What have I thought, said, or done today that I know the LORD was pleased with?
- DAY 15: Identifying myself w/ Christ's qualities as well as His death & resurrection, what characteristics of His can I honestly say is becoming more evident in me? What characteristics of His should I focus striving to put on?
- DAY 16: How important is God's will to me? Why is it important for others & my loved ones to live in His will?
- DAY 17: Even though I may not always be sure of the future or what the LORD'S exact plan is for me, living for Him keeps me on the right path. What can I say I am I sure of or becoming more sure of being on this path?
- DAY 18: God loves my obedience. If/when I'm ever tempted to disobey Him, what do I believe brings me to that point that I even have to compromise?
- DAY 19: The LORD's will is good because He is good. On a scale from 1 to 10, (1 being least confident, 10 being the most), how confident am I that I am living in God's will? What has changed or what hasn't?
- DAY 20: The LORD will not guide me where His will does not take me. Wherever I am in life right now, what have I learned that has benefitted my relationship w/ Him/my spiritual walk?
- DAY 21: What does taking up my cross & living for God mean to me?
- DAY 22: If I lived as someone I highly admired, would living for God look differently? How would it look/why or why not? On spiritual matters, in what ways do/can I relate to this person I admire?
- DAY 23: The Fruits of the Spirit are love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, & self-control (Gal. 5:22-23). Have I produced any of these fruits this past week?
- DAY 24: The more often I am at peace by agreeing with God & surrendering throughout my prayers, the more I am aware of His perfect will for my life. What good things can I say about His will?
- DAY 25: Worshiping the LORD is in His will, so is taking down my pride & humbling myself. What else is God's will for my life?
- DAY 26: Whenever/ if ever I feel like I am not living God's will, all I have to do is humble myself & from there I know that I am back on track. What am I hopeful for?
- DAY 27: My goals & ambitions in life should align w/ what the LORD desires for me. What specific reason do I have why He would want what I want for me?
- DAY 28: My confidence in God is part of His will. Are there some specific things I have become more confident about in the past month or in this journey, even if it's just a little thing?
- DAY 29: A sign of spiritual growth is the recurring acceptance of the LORD's will. What other signs have I become more aware of? How are they part of His will?
- DAY 30: The more I pray in God's will, the more I live in it. If the Fruits of the Spirit are love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, & self-control, how confidently can I pray in His will?
- DAY 31: What have I learned about God's will this past month? If a person came up to me asking what God's will is for their life, what would I tell them?
